

Bridge Inspection Interval

The National Bridge Inspection Standards (NBIS) require the inspection of every bridge. Most bridges are inspected on a 24 month cycle. Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) rules allow for bridges in excellent condition to be inspected at up to a 48 month interval. As bridges deteriorate, the inspection interval typically decreases. Illinois inspects most bridges on a 24 month interval.